ADAPTATION OF SOCIAL WORK PROFESSIONS TO THE PREVENTION OF NATURAL RISKS AND CONSEQUENCES OF CLIMATE CHANGE

NEWSLETTER N°6_FINAL.

After more than two years of work, the Social and Nature project is coming to an end, providing trainers and those working with the most vulnerable with tools and techniques to address the challenge of climate change, along with strategies for adaptation, mitigation and resilience.

The platform containing the online courses, videos and downloadable resources is available in English French, Greek and Italian.

How to use the virtual resource centre and the training platform

The learning platform of the Social & Nature project, integrated into the project website www.socialandnature.eu, is ready to use!.

Developed on the open-source CMS WordPress, the e-learning section is accessible via user registration. The compulsory fields, to be filled, are name and surname, profession, nationality and email contact.

The area devoted to resources includes a section where you can download the materials Guide of Actors, Toolbox and two sections leading to the courses, consisting of four modules each.

The courses are interactive and integrate various resources, texts, videos, data and graphics and downloadable pdf materials.

Go to www.socialandnature.eu/

Let's take stock of the project

Despite the requirements and COVID-19 safety measures, the production was finalised and the pilot training made the testing and adaptation of materials and digital resources effective. The partners managed a very efficient communication, often holding online meetings to be on the same page regarding the issues of the program. Through the online meetings, as reported in the participants' feedback, a very good communication was set together with a community of purpose and action for the last steps to be taken to the completion of the program, valorising the project results. We are all very happy for the results we reached and we hope you find our training course useful and enjoy it, as much as we did while planning and designing the learning resources.
